

~ Preface ~

The Testimony of Time

The Kalpa Saga

*In the beginning... there was only stillness —
no time, no sound, no light, not even the whisper of nothingness.
Only the blank hush of a sleeping void.*

*But then...
a thought stirred.
A single spark.
And from that spark...
everything began.*

*That thought—
is the reason you are hearing this tale.
The reason I can tell it.
The reason I exist.
The reason you exist.
The reason love exists, and so does envy.
Why light rises and darkness waits.
Why we fight. Why we fall. Why we hope.
Why beings, gods, realms, stars, dimensions,
and the very multiverse breathe at all.*

*That thought... was an idea.
And that idea... was the beginning of life.
The seed of beings.*

The epic of CREATION.

*And with that Creation, the First Fire awoke.
From it were born the Fourteen Cosmic Possessions — primordial forces, neither good nor evil, but absolute and eternal.*

*Time, the river that flows endlessly forward.
Wisdom, the knowing of all things.
Charisma, the gift to lead hearts and minds.
Power, to shape and shatter.
Greed, to want beyond measure.
Wrath, the fury of pain.
Destruction, the answer to excess.
Lust, the hunger of flesh and soul.
Pride, the mirror that blinds.
Compassion, the hand that lifts.
Truth, the blade and the balm.
Love, the core of all feeling.
Courage, to stand despite the storm.*

And Sacrifice, the price of all that matters.

These were not mere energies.
They were living laws — sacred flames.
And together, they formed what the gods called

Kutumb —

a divine bond of cosmic purpose, the family of all Existence.

From these Possessions, the universe was spun.
Realms blossomed. Dimensions fractured and intertwined.
Stars were born to die.
And life emerged — wild, beautiful, and unpredictable.

But the Possessions did not stay idle.
They chose vessels.
One by one, they whispered to mortals, spirits, even beasts — fusing into them, becoming one with them.

Thus began the Third Era —
the Golden Age of Kutumb.
And for a time, the universe thrived.

But when too many vessels carried too much power...
imbalance began.
The cosmos wavered. Fate splintered.
And the divine, who once only watched, finally intervened.

The God beyond the veil of realms,
who had never walked among Creation, now gave a part of Himself to a human —
a judge born not to rule, but to endure:

The Divine Will, bearer of Judgement.

The final hope. The sword that cuts through destiny itself.

And to balance Judgement, another was chosen —
A womb, a voice, a soul —
The one who would carry the Godly Possession of Creation.

The Mother of God.

Their story is the final spark.
The last verse of an ancient hymn sung through time.
The beginning of the end.

Because now, as rare celestial signs return,
and echoes of the past align once more —
The final era begins:

The Era of Dimensional Conflict.

I...
I am Time —
the First Possession, the eternal witness.
The one who walks every ending and every beginning.
And I am here to tell you...

this isn't just a story.
This is not just memory.
This is the cycle returning.
This is judgement reborn.
This is creation rewriting itself.

This is The Kalpa Saga —
and you, child of this era,
you were born into its final chapter.

So listen well...
Before time closes the book,
and begins it all... again.

By — Aryan K. Srivastava

Welcome to the Saga.....

This is the story of how the world, the dimensions, and even time itself were created — through 14 Cosmic Possessions, gifted by the Gods.
These divine forces — Time, Wisdom, Charisma, Power, Greed, Wrath, Destruction, Lust, Pride, Compassion, Truth, Love, Courage, and Sacrifice — are together known as The Creation.

This is the chronicle of a universe standing at the edge of imbalance...
where forgotten truths begin to awaken,
where ancient cosmic laws tremble once more,
and where the boundary between destiny and free will slowly starts to collapse.

The cycle is returning.
The Conflict is Rising.
A judgement is awakening.

And somewhere in this vast existence,
a few souls are about to remember who they truly are.

So step carefully, reader.
Because once you enter this Saga...
the question will no longer be:
"What is this story about?"

The real question will become:

"What if this was never just a story?"